TRANSITIONAL FEEDING

Transitional feeding is when you're switching your cat from one brand of food to another. This should be done slowly, giving your cat's body time to adjust. A gradual incorporation of a new food helps prevent stomach upsets, so adding it in 25% increments can make this transition smooth and comfortable.

ROTATIONAL FEEDING

Rotational feeding is beneficial for your cat in many ways. It mimics their ancestral diet, helps support a strong gastrointestinal environment, and provides your cat with a variety of flavours. To rotate, simply mix different ACANA flavours as often as you wish—every day, every week, or by the bag. Your cat will thank you for it.
